

How To Use Adwords Tutorial

Author:
Resale Rights

Created On: 11 Jan 2010 03:18 PM

---

If you are getting started on google Adwords, you may feel that you don't know exactly how to go about getting started and making the best use of Adwords. An Adwords tutorial may be just what you need.

An Adwords tutorial will tell you exactly what you need to do to become an Adwords expert. By using tutorials, Adwords customers can understand how the program works and take advantage of all the best search combinations.

Google itself has Adwords tutorials. When you first sign up for Google Adwords, you have the option of choosing a Starter Edition. This is a beginner version of Adwords for a single product, and for those who are new to internet advertising.

If you choose the Starter Edition option, the program will help you walk through an Adwords campaign.

While you can upgrade to the standard edition at any time, many people recommend beginning with the standard edition, since that will give you access to all keywords and features from the start.

You can also find demos at Adwords to show you how to use the features at the site. For example, there is one that focuses on the best keyword matches.

It runs automatically, and has audio that can be replaced with onscreen text, if that works better for you. You can find the tutorial at <http://www.google.com/adwords/tutorial.html>.

It discusses broad matches, exact matches, expanded matches, phrase matches and negative matches. It also discusses lowering costs by narrowing matches.

Other sites will give you step by step instruction for how to use Adwords effectively and what to avoid in creating an account.

One such Adwords tutorial has five parts to its video series. It begins by discussing what kinds of products sell best when used with a Clickbank advertising campaign. This is important to think about if you're just trying to make money and don't have a specific product to sell.

However, if you do have a product already and just want to learn how to market it effectively, skip the first section.

The second part of the Adwords tutorial focuses on how to do keyword research and how to choose excellent keywords that will make you money.

Step three highlights the basics for creating an Adwords campaign, and how to find free tools to assist in the process. It explains breaking down keywords into groups and focusing these groups into AdGroups.

There's also a knack to writing good ads that get attention, and a good Adwords tutorial will help you in that process as well.

Look for tutorials that will help you learn to do keyword targeting to get more customers and fewer empty clicks that bring in no revenue - it's a little more advanced, but as soon as you get your feet on the ground, you'll want to go there.

You may want to move toward getting affiliates for your product - look for Adwords tutorials that help you use "white hat" techniques - Internet lingo for following the rules and doing it "right," rather than using "tricks" to get the clicks and the rankings.