This collection of training tutorial videos that are used on this website were not created by Resale Enterprises, or anyone affiliated with us.

Over the years we have accumulated a very large collection of video content and have full licensing to provide them as free tools for you to utilize, and we choose to do so. We do highly recommend watching them if you are new to a certain area of marketing, new to online business, basically if you are new to any part of doing business online. Watch the videos, although we make no guarantees, they just may save you lots of time and money in trying to teach yourself through trial and error. We also have had many contributions from our visitors.

Some of the videos may be a bit dated, if you find one please submit a ticket to us and we will have it removed from the "Knowledgebase" straight away!

We do also welcome videos from our visitors (you) as well. If you have a quality video that you would like to have placed on this website please submit a ticket and send us the link on YouTube to it.
